OUTDOOR TRAVEL BLOG

ATLAS & BOOTS

Atlas & Boots is an award-winning outdoor travel blog covering thrilling activities in far-flung places, be it swimming with whales in Tonga or trekking the Himalayas.

Our founders, author Kia Abdullah and photographer Peter Watson, started on opposite ends of the outdoor spectrum. In fact, a week after they met, Peter went off to Africa to climb Kilimanjaro while Kia remained warmly cocooned by her desk as writers prefer to be. Over the ensuing years, they drew each other towards the middle; to what they describe as outdoorsy-ish.

They founded Atlas & Boots in 2014 when they quit their jobs to travel for a year, and have since garnered a monthly readership of over 150,000. Through a mix of destination reports, practical expertise, light-hearted listicles and topical debates, they encourage readers to go - arms wide open, caution to the wind - from coast to countryside and everywhere in between.
